Shenhua welcomes new Project Manager

Shenhua Watermark Coal Pty Limited welcomes Paul Jackson to the role of Project Manager for the Watermark Project. Bringing with him more than 20 years experience in the construction and mining industries, Paul has worked for some of Australia's largest companies.

Prior to joining Shenhua, Paul was a Project Director at BHP Billiton. During this time Paul worked on the Mt Arthur Coal expansion where he successfully took the operation from 8 Mtpa to 24 Mtpa over six years.

Paul has also spent four years working in China with Schenck Australia as the Project Manager for its Coal Handling Preparation Plan (CHPP) and Material Handling business. Here Paul was responsible for building six CHPP plants with associated materials handling of varying sizes in a combined Greenfield and Brownfield environment in China.

From 1997 to 2002, Paul worked for GHD in the Hunter Valley as Engineering and Design Manager, Construction Manager and Project Manager on a number of mining projects, including the Bengalla mine expansion.

Paul's role as Project Manager on the Watermark Project is to deliver the project to the required standards, scope and schedule, within budget whilst developing a positive legacy for the company and the Gunnedah and Liverpool Plains community.
